Translations

We provide you with a specialist for each subject area. Because our translators are not just native speaking academics but also true experts in their field.

Multi-language projects

Your multi-language projects are in good hands with us. We deliver to you the entire language pack on time. This saves not only time but also any associated high administrative costs.

Certifications

Certified translations are required in particular for Apostilles, deeds, court documents and medical reports. In our company these are handled by court-authorized translators. We are more than happy to provide you with the experts. You will receive a certified translation by post or courier sent directly to the desired address.

CAT tools

In the field of technical documentation, we use CAT tools like Trados, Wordfast and Across to apply the same identical passages in your texts and thus to achieve optimum consistency of terminology. In this context you also save costs, since the repeated passages are calculated at a lower rate. We also manage your terminology and take care of filing the TM. For your next project you can confidently return to us and have the new files analysed by us on the basis of the already completed translations. This way you reach your goal faster and cheaper! You can thus save up to 50% of your translation costs.

Telephone and e-mail service

We call on your behalf in the language of your choice or translate your e-mails! We follow, of course, your personal or business goals and give you a detailed report. Whether e-mail, individual interview or conference call, with our native-speaking interpreters and translators, you will always find the right words.

Proofreading and localization

In the area of the text revision, we offer you following services:

Proofreading

This refers to proof-reading and checking a text for spelling, grammar, syntax and punctuation. Thus, we actively support you when the texts have been translated by your company or offices abroad.

Editing

Editing extends proofreading. Additionally, a review of the correctness and consistency of terminology, as well as of expression and style takes place. In this context, our project managers discuss with you in person your wishes regarding terminology and style.

Localization

Localization goes one step further. When localizing, your text is also culturally and linguistically adapted to the particular target group.

Data protection

Tradumax adheres strictly to legal data protection regulations and confidentiality. All documents will be handled as confidential.

Quality assurance

Our translators are native speakers of the target language and also have excellent language skills in the source language. They possess the relevant expertise, they have in addition to superior general education also a university degree and at least 3 years experience as translators.
